Ready to add native plants to your shoreline? Try our Native Shoreline Mix.

Ideal for lakefronts, riparian areas, and wetlands, our Native Shoreline Mix is intended to be planted in close proximity to water to prevent shoreline erosion and promote habitat for aquatic organisms, waterfowl, and semi-aquatic mammals.

The kit includes 20 individual plants that fill a 30-square-foot area.

Species are subject to availability but may include (pictured left to right) blue-flag iris, marsh rose mallow, great blue lobelia, swamp milkweed, and obedient plant as well as (not pictured) bottle gentian and lake sedge.

For more details and plant-specific questions contact Drew Vandegrift at dvandegrift@cedarcreekinstitute.org or call (269) 721-4198.
